

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information processing apparatus comprises a function database which stores functions which can be assigned to keys, the functions being categorized 5 according to types of the functions, and an assigning unit which assigns an arbitrary one of the functions stored in the function database to one of the keys.